

Jamin' with Java

The versatile Saladmaster Whistling Tea Kettle could really be called the Saladmaster Multi-Purpose Kettle because making tea is only one of the tasty treats that this kettle can help you create.

Soups, sauces, Jell-O, pudding, noodles, tapioca, and, of course, numerous delicious instant coffee recipes are only some of the culinary delights that you can use your Saladmaster Tea Kettle to make. It is the only 316Ti stainless steel tea kettle available and you can taste the difference.

There are 2.25 billion cups of coffee consumed in the world every day. Instant coffee, invented in 1890 by David Strang in New Zealand, is derived from brewed coffee beans and is prepared by either freeze-drying or spray-drying the beans. Instant coffee is popular globally because of its convenience and is used as both a hot and cold drink. In general, instant coffee has less caffeine content than that of brewed coffee.

Use the Saladmaster Tea Kettle to try some of these delicious instant coffee recipes that can be served hot or over ice:
